FINISHING
STILE and RAIL DOORS

- Check panel alignment - panels may need realignment. Tap into place using soft wood block and hammer.
- Back bed any stop-glazed lights and putty.
- Sand or fill and sand any blemishes. Sand with the grain. Ease sharp edges caused by fitting.
- Finish sand with 100 grit sandpaper and clean dust thoroughly

- For Paint Finish
 - Apply good oil based primer to all 6 surfaces including top and bottom, according to manufacturer's instruction. Lacquer based primer or sealers should not be used.
 - Apply two coats of oil or latex resin-based finish paint. Care should be given to select finishes designed and manufactured to be used in combination.

 - Note: All surfaces must be fully sealed - 2 faces, 2 edges, plus top and bottom with all layers of paint or stain.

- For Stain Finish
 - Stain the door with good grade stain or combination stain and sealer.
 - Apply 2 coats of high quality varnish or equal finishing product in accordance with manufacturer's instructions. Do not use lacquer on exterior surfaces.

- Exterior doors require the last 2 coats to be of a high grade exterior finish.
- Semi-gloss luster gives the best appearance.

WARNING - Stain finishes tend to accentuate differences in grains, textures and patches in wood. You may wish to talk to your paint supplier about selecting a stain system that incorporates a paint finish first, with a stain second, followed by 2 coats of clear semi-gloss high grade exterior finish.

The Life Expectancy of today's finish products have been greatly reduced as a direct result of stringent environmental regulations, thus refinishing must be performed yearly.

Specialty Doors
Dutch Style

Step back in time with the classic Dutch Door. These doors have the ability to act as two separate pieces, or they can function as a single door. Either way you use them, they aren't your everyday run of the mill door.

This design allows light and air into the room by opening the top while the bottom half blocks dirt from blowing in. While the farm animals may not live in your yard, there is still great function that can be attained from a beautifully designed Dutch Door. Almost any door can be made into a Dutch door!
